Hongrond, February 26th, 1900. CAUSE OF THUCK UPERSTURES AS has ever done. Though for the moment dormant, there is little doubt that the Intense hutred of the Downger Empress towards the unfortunate Emperor continues with anahated venom, and that she is silently waiting to deliver her final blow. which, if delayed, will come at the end with all the greater malice. Nominally the young Emperor still sits on the dishonoured throne of his ancestors, but everything is being done to lower its prestige and to treat him as a mere intruder and usurper, while the Palace is filled with the most contemptible of men, whose sole recommendation is subservience to her whim of the moment, whatever it may be. And the Empress Downger and her satellites are so little acquainted with the first principles of authority that they fail to perceive that the very steps they are taking, in the vain hope of relieving themselves from the pressure of an approaching civilisation, are, one and all, hastening the dissolution of the Empire. Outrages on subjects of powerful states, though at the time they may seem a glorious assertion of independence, and may for a while go uppunished are heaping up materials for a conflagration, which once started will be unextinguishable till the fabric of government is sweptaway. It was outrages of this sort which led to the first war of 1842, and the opening of the five ports. A reneval of those outrages led to the second and third wars, and the opening of the northern and Yangtess ports. The massacres in Syechuen and Fuhkien led to still farther demands and the attempts to oust the Japanese from Kores only ended in the loss of Fermosa and Shingking. Outrages in Shautung led to the establishment of Germany in Shantung, and this to a military occupation by Russia of Manchuria and Liaotung, the cession of Weihaiwei to England, and, as a counterpoise, of Kwangchow to France. All these events have happened within the lifetime of the Empress Dowagen, and might have been supposed enough to have taught her and favourites sufficient wisdom to have distunded them from carrying on so loang a game. There seems, however, to attend the old age of nations, as of individuals, a period of dotage, when old habits become tyrants, and reason grows too feeble to arrest the inevitable

It will need measures stronger than the old Vicercy has even in his life taken to restere his province order. It is through Shanting, however, that the elements of disorder are must wislely scattered. Twelve years ago Shantung was probably the most contented and best governed province of the eighteen. Life and property were secure, and the people contented. Now we find the entire province a hotbed of faction. The people are Capsule$10.80 turned tone against another; no man's life or government is openly defied. The result of all this is that one foreigner has been burbarously murdered, and the lives of few more have been jeopardised. But, even from the point of view of the Empress Downger and her supporters, this has been and property amongst the people at large, however, in two years after its commencement. OPP DAY, SATURDAY, 24TH FEBRUARY. The Oil Day attendance consisted chiefly of people whose wident intention it was to take advantage of attextra half holiday to complete the week's festivities, and an entire absence of conventionality was particularly noticeable. His Excellency the Governor attended as usual, and the bright the Royal Welsh Fusilers provided the music. The glorious weather, combined with the good news from the seat of war, produced in excellent effect, and the crowd was in a particularly good humour. This was intensified when the comic element, in the shape of the race for sailors was introduced. The proceedings meliminary to the event were indescribably flight, and the roars of laughter that greeted the unshipping of first one rider and then another testified to the manner in which the impropertuentortainment was appreciated. Long before the middling bell rang course and in the vicinity of the saddling pad-costume of a lootballer, whilst another looked uncommonly like the result of a practical joke, Considering the unintentional manling to which they were subjected, the ponies conducted themselves uncommonly well. In one instance griffen displayed an inclination to kick his opponent when down, but his conduct was s resented that he is not likely to forget the fact that Englishmen dislike such tactics. The nautical folk were not content with providing the best fun of the day in the last race, but must need distinguish thouselves in another direction. Several of them became so excited over the result of one of the malou races that they pushed three of the latter's countrymen and two of themselves clean through the barrier into the drain. The attempts of the unfortunates to extricute themselves were ridiculous in the extreme, and ontirely divorted the attention of the bystanders from the fluish of the race. The steeplechese proved exciting and interesting. The field of twelve looked quite formidable at the starting post but before two jumps had been negotiated an entire change bad occurred, One had fallou, two run off, and the rest classed each other at various intervals. The Wizard, ridden by Mr. Johnson, took the brush in good style, sid floundering through the water jump reached lionic thirty longths ahead of the second pony. The Boar and one or two others disposed of their riders on route, and Corbie, the favourite absolutely refused to feuce.

CANTON NOTES.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT. Canton, 24th February. It is reported here that H D, Li ling-chang intends to institute a heard consisting of several sociation or deputty officials, to inquire into the reason of the dearness of provisions, and in fact of everything else as well, in the Canton murkets a fact which renders the life of the inhabitants a very hard one-and to trace the sources from which the commodities come, with a view to despatching officials to the various localities where the food supplies and other necessities are produced, to buy them up and to sell them at a reasonable rate. Orders have been given to the Provincial Treasurer and to the two generals in command of the native regiments to take the matter in hand at once. The stop would be a most excellent one, as if weight for inches as per scale; four to start properly carried out it would relieve the prevailing want caused by high priors and scarcity

But on the other hand it opens a door to another form of squeeze; for instance, the weiguen and other petty officials in charge of this matter would arrange to buy the course provisions at pheap rates, charging to the government something over and above the actual price, and then sell them to the people at a high price, thus making a profit from both sides. The Chinese have a saying "while the two ends are starved the middle grows fats."

On account of the numerous robberies daily taking place in Canton, H.E. Li Hung-chang has given orders to the Commandents of the different regiments to keep strong patrol in every street; each street is divided into several beats, and each beat is to be patrolled strictly by a soldier for tour hours, and ing The Wizard and Demon King. The latter | then another will take his turn, and so on would not take the second hurdle, which de- | during day and night. Upon being an alarm given the soldiers are, it is laid down, to give chase and surround the thief or thieves, and whowinning by twenty lengths. No time was lever arrests a thief will get a reward. In case the patrol, it is rather quaintly provided, shows any foar and lets the thief escape, he shall be punished as a warning to others. Any person who carries arms and walks about in the street shall be arrested and brought before the proper

Owing to the numerous piracies in the Canton and West River districts the Commissioner of Customs has upon consultation with H.E. the Vicercy, ordered that all the boats shall be registered and numbered, that guaranties shall be found, and that their captains shall keep a strict watch on all the passengers so that thieves and pirates may be promptly detected.

MORE NOTES.

[FROM THE "CHUNG NGOL SAN PO."] All the shops in the Tan Po and Pak-Lai market places, in the Fa-un district, have been closed since the 17th instant on eccount of the robbers demanding blackmail from them-under threat of burning and plundering the shops in case of refusal. The shop people, being ex fromely afraid of the robbers but quable to comply with their request, were obliged to doze their shops, so that business in these markets in now at a stand-still. The circumstances have Livery to the Lunwinder of Viceroy Li Hung-Chang, who at once sent 500 soldiers, under the command of a military officer named Pak, to restore peace. On the The Bullsup cup; presented; second pony to 21st inst. the soldiers met a large band of robbers on their way back to headquarters after some successful robberies. Fire was exchanged between the two parties, but the robbers, being out-numbered, took to flight, and twenty-two were taken alive and have been sent to Canton

> H. E. Li Hung-Chang his received lately a telegram from the local mandarins in Chiu-Chau district to the effect that a rebellion has broken out there, and asking for reinforcements. In roply the Vicercy has sent troops | GEO. P. LAMMERT. under the command of a military officer named Wong-Loong to cope with the rebels.

The fundam gambling house in the prefecture of Kwang-Chow (which includes fourteen districts) have been farmed out by a certain merchant who has to pay an annual rent of 720,000. taels. These fautan houses require licences from the farmer at the rate of forty and twenty | STAG HOTEL dollars a day for the first and second class respectfully, in addition to the usual blackmail to the officials, gentry and yours runners, who now only receive twenty per cent. of the black. mail paid to them by the gambling houses in former days, the remaining eighty per cent. going to the farmer. It is said that forty thousand out of the seventy two thousand tacks are employed to defray the expenses of suppressing the robbers, throughout the whole

It is reported that the farmer of the Waisang monopoly has applied to the Viceroy asking to be allowed to issue lottery tickels modeled on the Macao lottery ticket on payment of certain annual revenue to the Government. This application is under consideration.

As copper eash is in great demand in Canton where a dollar only fotohes from seven hundred to eight hundred pieces as against the one thousand and one hundred of former years, the Vicercy has ordered cents weighing two mace and four condareens to be minted,
